

EVENING ROUNDUP

Daily Evening Report on Bullion, Base Metals and Energy Commodities

Friday, July 4, 2025

- Gold spot poised for a weekly gain, helped by a weaker US dollar alongside safe-haven inflows as US President Donald Trump's deadline for trade deals loomed.
- The tariff rates ranging from 10% to 50%, announced on April 2, are set to take effect on July 9 following a 90-day pause imposed by Trump to allow time for bilateral trade negotiations.
- US Nonfarm payrolls increase 147,000 in June, while unemployment rate falls to 4.1%, signaling the resilience in labor market health.
- US economic growth contracted at rate of 0.5% in first quarter of 2025, a sharper decline than the prior estimates and marking the first quarterly contraction in three years.
- Fed Chair, in his semi-annual testimony, signaled that the inflation could rise as the effect of tariffs and the central bank need to assess the tariffs impact on prices before considering the possibility of rate cuts. Although two rate cuts are planned for this year by FOMC in the recent meeting, the Fed chair's comments rules out the possibility of a rate cut in July.
- Crude oil prices slipped after Iran reaffirmed its commitment to nuclear non-proliferation, while major producers from the OPEC+ group are set to agree to raise their output this weekend.
- OPEC+ is planning to raise output by 411,000 barrels per day in August, following similar hikes in May, June, and July. If finalized, OPEC+'s total supply will increase for the year to 1.78 million bpd, equivalent to more than 1.5% of global oil demand.
- OPEC has downwardly revised its forecast for crude oil supply growth from non-OPEC+ countries in 2025 and 2026 by 0.1 million bpd to 0.8 million bpd.
- IEA forecasts that the growth of world oil consumption will slow down in 2025 to about 740,000 barrels per day.
- Copper output in Peru, the world's third-biggest producer, is expected to grow slightly to 2.8 million metric tonnes this year. Peru produced about 2.7 million tonnes of copper in 2024.
