Technical Snapshot

SELL SILVER MAY @ 228000 SL 231000 TGT 224000-220000. MCX

Observations

Silver trading range for the day is 213330-246720.

Silver fell as surging energy prices fueled inflation concerns and reduced expectations for interest rate cuts.

Fed kept rates unchanged, signaling that cuts are unlikely until inflation shows clear easing.

The ECB, BOJ, and BOE also left rates steady but struck more hawkish tones, indicating a bias toward tighter policy.

Markets now push Fed easing to 2027 and price in two BoE hikes this year, weighing heavily on silver's outlook.

Gold tumbled as escalating Middle East tensions sent energy prices soaring and dashed hopes for near-term interest rate cuts. Prices extended their decline after reports that the Pentagon is deploying three warships and thousands of Marines to the region, prompting traders to price in a 50% chance of a Federal Reserve rate hike by October amid fears of sustained inflation. The safe-haven metal has fallen every week since the US-Israel strikes on Iran last month, pressured by rising Treasury yields, a stronger dollar, and profit-taking as investors liquidated positions to offset losses elsewhere. Earlier in week, the Federal Reserve, European Central Bank, Bank of England, and Bank of Japan held rates steady but signaled readiness to tighten policy further if inflationary pressures persist.

India gold discounts ease on festive demand; China premiums ease - Gold discounts in India eased from near decade-high levels hit last week, helped by festive buying and a sharp correction in prices, while premiums in China declined as physical demand softened. Bullion dealers in India offered discounts of up to $75 per ounce over official domestic gold prices – inclusive of 6% import and 3% sales levies, down from discounts of up to $83 last week, the highest since July 2016. Demand from Indian jewellers remained muted despite the sharp price correction as they were busy closing their books for the financial year. In top consumer China, bullion traded at premiums of $10-$22 an ounce over global benchmark prices this week, lower than last week's $20-$30 premium. In Hong Kong, physical gold traded at par to premiums of $1.70, while in Japan, gold was sold at a premium of $1. In Singapore, gold was traded at premiums of $0.50 to $2.50, versus premiums of $0.50 to $2 last week.

Swiss gold exports drop 18% m/m in February - Gold exports from Switzerland in February fell 18% from the previous month to the lowest level since August as shipments to Britain and India slowed, Swiss customs data showed. Deliveries from Switzerland, the world's biggest bullion refining and transit hub, to the UK fell to 20 metric tons last month from 43 tons in January. The UK is home to the world's largest over-the-counter gold trading hub. Supplies to India, a major bullion consumer, slowed to 13 tons in February from 23 tons with bullion trading at a discount in the local market amid subdued demand.

China's January net gold imports via Hong Kong rose almost 69% from December - China's net gold imports via Hong Kong in January rose by 68.7% from December, Hong Kong Census and Statistics Department data. The world's top gold consumer imported a net 20.585 metric tons in January, up from 12.205 tons in December, the data showed. The Hong Kong data may not provide a complete picture of Chinese purchases because gold is also imported via Shanghai and Beijing. China's total gold imports via Hong Kong reached 36.544 tons in January, up 30.4% from December's 28.014 tons. Physical gold in China traded at premiums of $12-$13 an ounce above the global benchmark spot price this week as bullion's safe-haven appeal shone through after markets returned from the Lunar New Year holiday. Meanwhile, China's central bank extended its gold buying spree for a 15th month in January, data from the People's Bank of China (PBOC) showed this month.

Goldman Sachs sees gold prices to grind higher to $5,400/toz by end – 2026 - Goldman Sachs Group Inc. raised its year-end gold price forecast by more than 10%, reflecting growing private-sector diversification into bullion on top of already-strong demand from central banks and exchange-traded funds. The bank raised its December 2026 price target to $5,400 an ounce, from a prior forecast of $4,900, on the assumption that private investors who have bought gold as a hedge against macro policy risks will maintain these positions through the end of the year. Central-bank buying is expected to average 60 tons a month in 2026, with monetary authorities in emerging markets "likely to continue the structural diversification of their reserves into gold. Western ETF holdings, meanwhile, have increased by around 500 tons since the start of 2025, outpacing predictions based solely on US interest-rate cuts. Goldman expects a further 50 basis points of Fed easing in 2026.
