Dow, S&P 500 Give Back Ground, But Nasdaq Moves Modestly Higher

US Markets remain cautiously positioned amid geopolitical developments, upcoming Supreme Court tariff decisions, and the early stages of Q4 earnings season.

American stocks fluctuated throughout the trading day on Wednesday before ending the relatively lacklustre session mixed.

Energy stocks declined sharply, with Exxon Mobil falling 3% and Chevron dropping 4%, after oil prices retreated following Trump's announcement that Venezuela would provide up to 50 million barrels to the US at market prices.

Housing stocks moved sharply lower over the course of the session, dragging the Philadelphia Housing Sector Index down by 2.6 per cent.

Semiconductor stocks steadied after explosive gains yesterday, with SanDisk surging nearly 28% after AI-optimised storage breakthroughs.

Precious metals faced profit-taking ahead of commodity index rebalancing.

ADP's December employment data showed 41,000 jobs added, slightly missing expectations. Economists had expected private-sector employment to increase by 47,000 jobs, compared with the 32,000 job loss originally reported for the previous month.

Asian equity markets showed mixed performance, with moderate declines in major indices amid cautious sentiment. Japan's Nikkei 225 fell 1%.

Nifty extended its losing streak to a third straight session yesterday, slipping 37 points to settle at 26,140, but managing to close off the day's low.

Despite the short-term softness, the broader positional trend remains bullish, supported by a pattern of higher tops and higher bottoms on the daily charts.

On the upside, the recent swing high at 26,373 is likely to act as an immediate resistance level, while 26,000 is expected to provide strong near-term support.

Indian markets are poised to open modestly lower on the back of weak Asian cues.

Key Events

US private sector sees modest job growth, falls short of expectations

The ADP National Employment Report, a key indicator of non-farm private employment in the United States, has shown a modest increase in job numbers. The report, which is based on the payroll data of approximately 400,000 U.S. business clients, revealed an increase of 41,000 jobs in the recent period.

While the growth in employment is a positive sign for the economy, the figure falls short of the forecasted increase of 49,000 jobs. This discrepancy suggests that while the job market is expanding, it is doing so at a slower pace than economists had predicted.

US service sector activity picks up in December, employment rebounds

The US services sector activity unexpectedly picked up in December, suggesting the economy ended 2025 on a solid footing.

The Institute for Supply Management said that its nonmanufacturing purchasing managers index increased to 54.4 last month from 52.6 in November. Economists polled by Reuters had forecast the services PMI dipping to 52.3.

The services sector accounts for more than two-thirds of U.S. economic activity. The PMI suggested strong momentum in the economy heading into the new year, with even a measure of services employment rebounding to 52.0 after contracting for six straight months. The economy grew at its fastest pace in two years in the third quarter, fueled by robust consumer spending.

Rupee Starts Appreciating Against Dollar

Indian rupee continued its appreciation for the second consecutive day, rising 29 paise against the US dollar to close at 89.88, marking its strongest single-session gain since mid-December. The move was largely driven by proactive central bank action, with the RBI stepping in aggressively to offset the impact of persistent foreign portfolio outflows.
