Technical Outlook

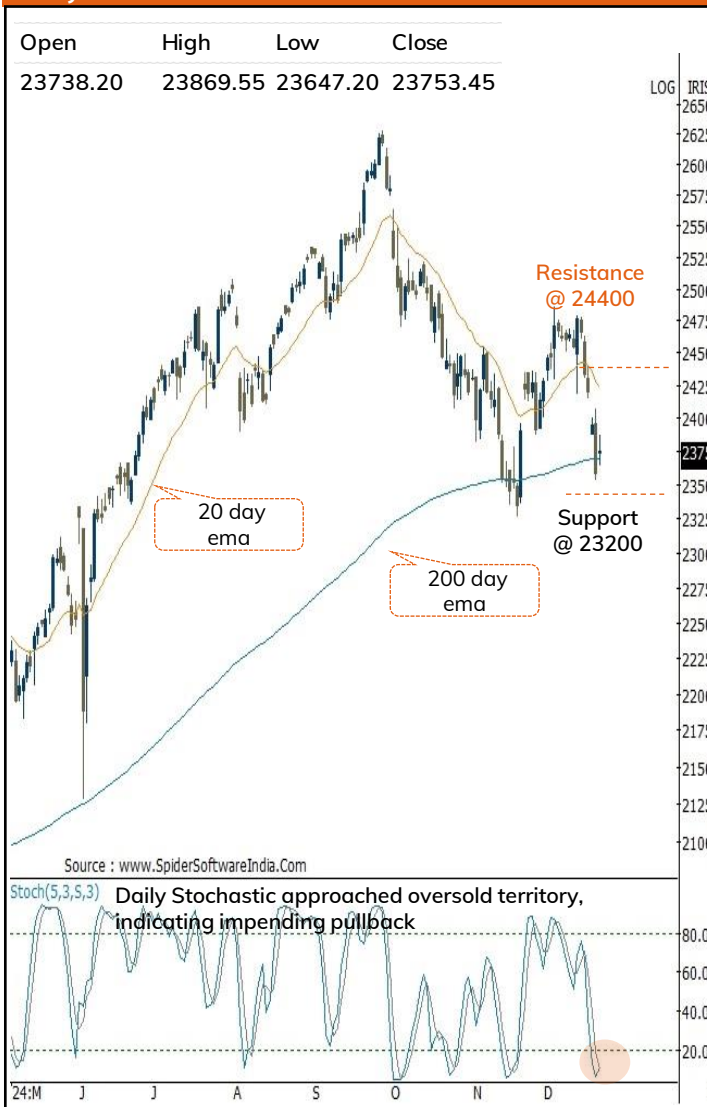

Day that was...

Equity benchmark snapped five sessions losing streak tracking firm global cues. Nifty ended the session with a gain of 166 points or 0.70%, closing at 23753. The market breadth remained negative with advances at 1130 and declines at 1704. Sectorally, Realty was the top gainer, up by 1.47%, followed by NiftyBank and PSUBank, up by 1.10% and 1.08%, respectively. On the downside, Auto closed marginally down by 0.10%

Technical Outlook:

- The index started the week with a positive gap (23587-23738) and subsequently witnessed a rangebound activity. Consequently, index formed an inside bar pattern within Friday's sizable bear candle, indicating breather at 200 days EMA (placed at 23690). In the process, the stochastic oscillator gave a bullish crossover while trading in the oversold zone, suggesting the possibility of a rebound. The India VIX dropped by 10.30%, closing at 13.52, indicating reduced volatility.
- Going ahead, follow through strength along with a decisive close above 23900 would confirm pause in downward momentum that open the door for next leg of up move towards 24400 being confluence of 61.8% retracement of current decline (24857-23537) coincided with 50 days EMA placed at 24360. Failure to do so would lead to extended correction wherein next support is placed at 23200. In the process, we expect volatility would remain elevated tracking monthly expiry coupled with global development. Thus, stock centric approach would remain in focus.
- On the broader market front, Nifty midcap and small cap indices have extended breather while sustaining above its 100 days EMA. We expect, broader market to prolong the ongoing healthy retracement that would set the stage for next leg of up move
- Only the breach below immediate support of 23200 would result into extended correction towards key support threshold of 22900 as it is 123.6% external retracement of recent up move 23263-24857 that coincided with lower band of past 2 and half years rising channel

Day that was:

Bank Nifty took a breather after five days of losing streak. Bank Nifty concluded the sessions at 51317, up 1.10%. Meanwhile, Nifty PVT Bank index relatively underperformed the benchmark by closing positive by 0.88%

Technical Outlook:

- The Bank Nifty started the week on a positive note after witnessing a sharp down move in the last week. As a result, the index created an inside bar during Monday's trading session which indicates indecisiveness. The upcoming session is expected to remain volatile due to monthly expiry.
- Moving ahead, to pause the ongoing corrective phase and witness a meaningful pullback the index need to decisively close above previous sessions high 51629. Else, continuation of corrective bias wherein next key support is placed at 49700 mark, which is placed near 52-week EMA, coinciding with 61.8% retracement of previous up-move (46077-54467). Meanwhile, on the upside the 50% retracement mark of the current fall at 52200 (53888-50609) would act as immediate resistance.
- Key point to highlight is that, the last weeks >3100 points correction hauled daily stochastic oscillator in oversold territory (at 8), indicating possibility of a pullback in coming sessions cannot be ruled out.
- Mirroring the benchmark index, Nifty PSU Bank index witnessed a support from the lower levels and observed some intraday pullback. The index created a hammer like candlestick pattern around 61.8% retracement mark of the previous up-move(6163-7248), coinciding with 52-week EMA. Moving ahead, the previous sessions high of 7097 will be key level to watch-out for, sustenance above which would trigger a sizeable pullback

Candlestick patterns describe the market sentiment for the specified period. Some of the formations suggest reversal of sentiment (trend) and, therefore, are important for a chart reader. By themselves, the patterns do not carry any price target but only an indication of change in market behaviour. More importance needs to be given to the placement of the pattern within larger trend

Morning Star: Potential bottom reversal pattern made of three candle lines. The first sizeable black candle reflects a market in which the bears are in complete charge. The next candle line--the small real body--shows a slight diminution of the bearish force. The white candle that makes up the last part of the morning star visually displays the bulls are gaining the upper hand. Lowest low amongst three candles becomes technical support

Bullish Engulfing Line: A potential bottom reversal pattern. This pattern typically appears at the culmination of a decline or downtrend. The market falls, and a black candle forms (ideally a small black candle). Next, a white real body wraps around the prior session's black body. Low of the pattern becomes short term support for prices

Piercing Line: Potential bottom reversal pattern. A black body forms in the downtrend. The market continues moving south on the next session's open but that session culminates in a white real body that closes (e.g. pierces) than half way or more into the prior black body. Lowest low between two candles is referred to as technical support for prices

Hammer: A candlestick line which, during a downtrend, has a very long lower shadow and small real body (black or white) at the top end of the session's range. There should be no, or a very small, upper shadow. Pattern suggests buying support during declines and needs confirmation in terms of sustainability of prices above head of the Hammer in following session

Evening Star: Potential Top reversal pattern made of three candle lines. Comparable with a traffic signal. First white candle reflects a market in bullish trend. The next candle line--the small real body--warns waning momentum. The black candle that completes the evening star visually exhibits that prior up trend has stopped or reversed

Bearish Engulfing Line: Potential top reversal signal. This two candlestick pattern emerges during a rally. A black candle real body wraps around a white real body (classically a small white candle) Highest high between two candles becomes resistance level for prices for future reference

Dark Cloud cover: A dark cloud cover forms a top reversal pattern. The first session should be a strong, white real body. The second session's price opens over the prior session's high (or above the prior session's close). By the end of the second session, it closes near the low of the session and should fall well into the prior session's white body. Pattern suggests that market has a poor chance of rising immediately

Shooting Star: A single candlestick line during a rally in which there is a small real body (white or black) at the bottom end of the session's range and a very long upper shadow. The candle line should also have little or no lower shadow. Pattern suggest the trouble for prices overhead

Continuation Patterns: Other than widely known Candlestick reversal patterns discussed above, there are numerous patterns mentioned in literature on Candlestick which describe the continuation of existing sentiments i.e. bullish or bearish. We have refrained from mentioning names of these patterns to avoid confusion. However, the remark Continuation Pattern refers to bullish or bearish candlestick patterns which suggest continuation of existing trend
