

EVENING ROUNDUP

A Daily Evening Report on Bullion, Base Metals and Energy Commodities

Thursday, November 28, 2024

- Gold spot steadied as investors assessed a slew of US economic data, which pointed to persistent inflationary pressures. The latest personal income and consumption data showed an uptick, indicating a resilient consumer market and a potential support for inflation. This may prompt Federal Reserve to exercise caution at further interest rate cuts.
- US economy expanded 2.8% in the third quarter of 2024, compared to 3% in the previous quarterly period.
- The global silver deficit is expected to fall by 4% to 182 million ounces in 2024, with growth of 2% in total supply offsetting demand growth of 1%, the Silver Institute industry association said.
- Crude oil prices revived from previous session fall on a surprise build in US gasoline storage level that signaled a sluggish fuel demand in the world's largest consumer.
- OPEC+ members Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Russia agreed in a meeting in Iraq on the importance of maintaining stable oil markets and fair prices, ahead of OPEC+ meeting next week.
- The International Energy Agency (IEA) said the world's crude oil supply will exceed demand in 2025 even if OPEC+ cuts remain in place, as rising production outside the producer group is met by sluggish global demand growth.
- NYMEX natural gas futures hovered in the vicinity at one-year high on forecasts for colder weather, rising gas flows to U.S. liquefied natural gas export plants and soaring global gas prices.
- Russian aluminium producer Rusal will cut output by more than 6% as part of a production optimization programme in response to high alumina prices and elevated macroeconomic risk.
- Global primary aluminium output in October rose 1.3% yoy to 6.221 million tonnes, data from the International Aluminium Institute (IAI) showed.
- The copper production in Peru, the world's largest supplier, fell 1.2% yoy in to 232,423 metric tonnes.
