

EVENING ROUNDUP

Daily Evening Report on Bullion, Base Metals and Energy Commodities

Tuesday, June 2, 2026

- Gold prices edged higher, buoyed by lower U.S. Treasury yields and easing crude oil prices. Meanwhile, market participants remained cautious, awaiting clarity on U.S. President Donald Trump's stance regarding a proposed extension of the Iran ceasefire.
- The U.S. and Iran reportedly reached an agreement last week to extend their ceasefire and lift restrictions on shipping through the Strait of Hormuz, though it had not been finalized.
- Meanwhile, heightened geopolitical tensions involving the U.S., Israel, and Iran have amplified inflation risks, reinforcing market expectations that the Federal Reserve may maintain a tighter monetary policy stance, including the possibility of additional interest rate hikes.
- Crude oil prices fell slipped, paring the previous session's sharp gains, after U.S. President Donald Trump said talks with Iran were ongoing.
- International Energy Agency said that the global oil supply is expected to fall short of demand this year, as the Iran conflict disrupts Middle East production and tightens market balances.
- Indian refiners turned to imports from Latin America and Africa after supplies from the Middle East were disrupted.
- Two tankers carrying oil products exited the Strait of Hormuz over the past week.
- Base metals posted broad gains, supported by concerns over tightening supply conditions. However, upside momentum was limited by uncertainty surrounding a potential Iran peace agreement and weak manufacturing activity in China, the world's largest metal consumer.
- Copper output at Chile's state owned Codelco declined 9.98% yoy in March to 110,900 tonnes. Production at Escondida, the world's largest copper mine, dropped 15.75% to 101,600 tonnes, while Collahuasi, operated by Glencore and Anglo American, saw output fall 10.80% to 31,400 tonnes.
- China's aluminium output rose by 3.1% from a year earlier to 3.87 million metric tonnes in April. In the first four months of the year, China produced 15.33 million metric tonnes, a rise of 3.5% from the same period last year.
