Gold prices rose supported by a weaker dollar and easing energy costs after U.S. President Donald Trump suggested the war in the Middle East could end soon. However, upside seen limited as higher energy costs fanned inflation concerns and further dimmed the prospects for a near-term cut in interest rates by the U.S. Federal Reserve. Investors expect the Fed to keep rates steady at the end of its two-day meeting on March 18, per CME Group's FedWatch tool. China's central bank kept purchasing gold for a 16th straight months, with its holdings totalling 74.22 million fine troy ounces by the end of February, versus the previous month's 74.19 million.

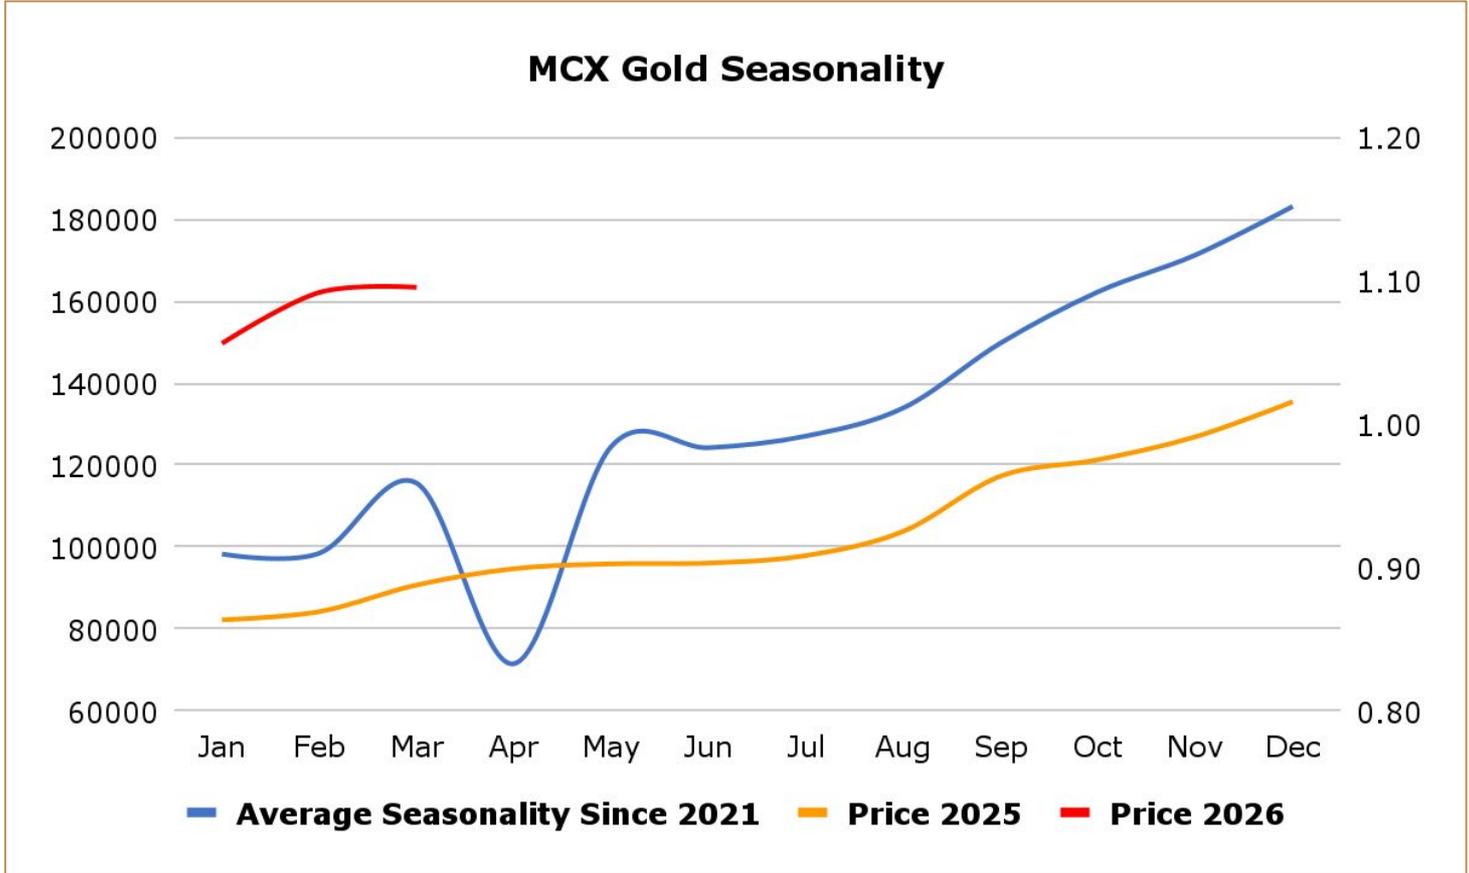

ASIA GOLD – Pricey gold keeps Indian buyers away; China demand steady - Demand for physical gold eased in India as volatile prices amid escalating Middle East conflict deterred buyers, while premiums in China held firm on a pickup in investment demand. Airspace closures across the region have sharply reduced supplies, narrowing discounts in India. Bullion dealers in the region offered discounts of up to $28 per ounce to official domestic gold prices, compared with last week's discount of up to $65 – a 10-month high. Meanwhile, physical gold demand in Chinese markets remained robust despite higher spot prices. Gold traded at premiums of $13-$15 an ounce over global benchmark prices this week, slightly above last week's $12-$13 premium. In Hong Kong, physical gold traded at par to premiums of $2, while in Japan, gold was sold at par to premiums of up to $1. In Singapore, gold was traded at a premium of about $2.25, lower from premiums of $3.50-$4.80 last week.

China's January net gold imports via Hong Kong rose almost 69% from December - China's net gold imports via Hong Kong in January rose by 68.7% from December, Hong Kong Census and Statistics Department data. The world's top gold consumer imported a net 20.585 metric tons in January, up from 12.205 tons in December, the data showed. The Hong Kong data may not provide a complete picture of Chinese purchases because gold is also imported via Shanghai and Beijing. China's total gold imports via Hong Kong reached 36.544 tons in January, up 30.4% from December's 28.014 tons. Physical gold in China traded at premiums of $12-$13 an ounce above the global benchmark spot price this week as bullion's safe-haven appeal shone through after markets returned from the Lunar New Year holiday. Meanwhile, China's central bank extended its gold buying spree for a 15th month in January, data from the People's Bank of China (PBOC) showed this month.

Goldman Sachs sees gold prices to grind higher to $5,400/toz by end – 2026 - Goldman Sachs Group Inc. raised its year-end gold price forecast by more than 10%, reflecting growing private-sector diversification into bullion on top of already-strong demand from central banks and exchange-traded funds. The bank raised its December 2026 price target to $5,400 an ounce, from a prior forecast of $4,900, on the assumption that private investors who have bought gold as a hedge against macro policy risks will maintain these positions through the end of the year. Central-bank buying is expected to average 60 tons a month in 2026, with monetary authorities in emerging markets "likely to continue the structural diversification of their reserves into gold. Western ETF holdings, meanwhile, have increased by around 500 tons since the start of 2025, outpacing predictions based solely on US interest-rate cuts. Goldman expects a further 50 basis points of Fed easing in 2026.

China's Gold Market Shifts as Investment Demand Outpaces Jewelry in 2025 - China's gold sector saw notable shifts in 2025, reflecting changing consumer and investment behavior. Total gold output rose 3.4% to about 552 tons, supported by both steady domestic mining and a sharp increase in output from imported materials. While overall gold consumption slipped 3.6% to roughly 950 tons, the composition of demand changed significantly. Jewelry demand fell sharply as consumers favored gold bars and coins, which jumped more than 35%, signaling a clear move toward investment-led buying. This trend was reinforced by a surge in domestic gold ETF holdings, which climbed nearly 150% during the year. Meanwhile, China continued strengthening its reserves, adding nearly 27 tons of gold and extending its steady accumulation streak.
