Observations

Gold trading range for the day is 147925-151675.

Gold prices gained amid easing expectations of a Federal Reserve interest rate hike this month

The 10- and 30-year Treasury yields hit 24-year highs as negative sentiment in the bond market prevailed.

Traders are still pricing an 87% probability of an increase in December, according to CME's FedWatch Tool.

HSBC lowered its average 2026 gold price forecast, citing expectations of further US Federal Reserve interest rate hikes and rising oil prices.

SELL SILVER DEC @ 228000 SL 231000 TGT 225000-222000. MCX

Observations

Silver trading range for the day is 222865-230265.

Silver gains amid support from softer US jobs data and reduced expectations for an October rate hike by Fed.

The dollar strengthened largely as the euro weakened amid rising political uncertainty and fiscal concerns across Europe.

Treasury yields climbed to fresh 24-year highs as the global bond selloff continued, driven by mounting fiscal risks.

ISM data showed that cost pressures in the US services sector increased at the fastest pace in more than four years last month.

Gold prices gained amid easing expectations of a Federal Reserve interest rate hike this month, although gains were limited amid a firmer US dollar and elevated Treasury yields. The 10- and 30-year Treasury yields hit 24-year highs as negative sentiment in the bond market prevailed. Expectations of a US rate hike in October eased after data showed US job growth slowed more than expected in September and nonfarm payrolls for the prior two months were revised lower. Traders are still pricing an 87% probability of an increase in December, according to CME's FedWatch Tool. Data showed US services sector activity slowed in September, while strong domestic demand stretched supply chains and pushed a measure of prices paid by businesses for inputs to its highest level in more than four years, suggesting inflation could remain elevated into 2027.

Asian gold demand improves as price pullback draws buyers - Physical gold demand in most key Asian hubs improved modestly as lower prices lured some buyers back to the market, though others awaited a steeper decline. Dealers quoted discounts of up to $14 an ounce over official domestic prices week, inclusive of 15% import and 3% sales levies, compared with last week's discounts of up to $43. Indians will celebrate Dussehra festival this month, and Diwali in early November, when buying gold is considered auspicious. In top consumer China, bullion traded at premiums of $5 to $10 an ounce to the global benchmark price. In Singapore, gold was sold between a $1.5 discount and a $1 premium this week, while in Hong Kong it traded between a discount of $1.5 and a premium of $0.5. Meanwhile, in Japan, gold was sold between a $0.25 discount and a $0.5 premium.

China's August net gold imports via Hong Kong rise 4% month – on – month - China's net gold imports via Hong Kong in August rose more than 4% from July, Hong Kong Census and Statistics Department data showed, supported by firm investment demand. The world's biggest gold consumer imported a net 58.491 metric tons in August, compared with 56.193 tons in July, the data showed. China's total gold imports via Hong Kong were 77.137 tons in August, up more than 2% from July's 75.457 tons. China's central bank stepped up its gold purchases for a sixth straight month in August, adding the most bullion to its reserves since October 2023 and extending its buying streak to a 22nd consecutive month, official data showed earlier this month. China has continued to accumulate gold even as bullion prices have risen sharply this year.

Goldman Sachs kept its end-2027 gold price forecast at $5,400 per troy ounce despite the latest US interest rate increase - Goldman Sachs kept its end-2027 gold price forecast at $5,400 per troy ounce despite the latest US interest rate increase, saying tighter policy is likely to slow bullion's rally but not derail it. Goldman Sachs said in a note that it expects "the impact of tighter monetary policy to be felt primarily through a slower near-term appreciation path rather than a lower terminal gold price." Goldman Sachs said continued central bank diversification remains the main structural driver of its constructive gold view. It said a more hawkish Fed could trigger a sharper correction in gold, with prices potentially falling to around $4,070 if the US central bank delivers three more rate hikes this year and signals a higher terminal rate, before recovering to about $4,200 by end-2026 as continued central bank purchases support the market.

Swiss gold exports jump 65% in August as shipments to Britain surge - Swiss gold exports in August jumped 65% from July as shipments to Britain surged to their highest monthly level in seven years, Swiss customs data showed. Deliveries from Switzerland, the world's biggest bullion refining and transit hub, to the UK rose last month to 102.1 metric tons from 39.5 tons in July. Britain is home to the world's largest over-the-counter gold trading hub. Supplies to China, a key bullion consumer, increased 20% month on month to 26.1 tons in August while deliveries to India, another major consumer, fell 58% to 3.5 tons, the data showed.
