

In-line performance; macro uncertainties cloud predictability

Information Technology ▶ Result Update ▶ April 10, 2026

CMP (Rs): 2,589 | TP (Rs): 2,950

TCS's Q4 operating performance was in line with our expectation. Revenue grew 1.5% QoQ (1.2% CC) to USD7.6bn, marking the third consecutive quarter of sequential growth. EBITM expanded by 10bps QoQ to 25.2%, with gains from higher realizations and currency largely reinvested into capability building. Deal wins remained strong at USD12bn (book-to-bill of 1.6x; ~45% new), including 3 mega deals – M&S, a telco in the UK, and an American healthcare and pharmacy retailer. AI revenue grew to USD575mn (28% QoQ; 7.5% of revenue), led by accelerated deployments across industries. TCS reported improvement across client buckets in Q4, indicating reduced revenue leakage, incremental discretionary spending, early signs of stabilization, and growth returning to mid-sized and large accounts. The management expects FY27 to see a return to normal seasonality, with stronger sequential growth in H1 than in H2. It remains confident on sustaining momentum, supported by strong client engagement, a healthy order book, and strategic investments in AI and partnerships, while staying mindful of macro and geopolitical risks. TCS aspires to be the largest AI-led tech services firm by gaining market share through AI-led renewals, vendor consolidation, and cost optimization, evolving into a full-stack AI player and creating new revenue streams (such as AI infra build-out). We raise FY26-28E earnings marginally, factoring in Q4 performance. We retain ADD and lift TP by ~5% to Rs2,950 (from Rs2,800), at 18x Mar-28E EPS.

Results summary

Revenue grew 1.5% QoQ (1.2% CC) to USD7.6bn, ahead of our estimate of 1% CC. EBITM expanded by ~10bps QoQ to 25.3%, slightly below our estimate, driven by improved realizations from value-led delivery (+40bps) and currency (+110bps), partly offset by higher external consultant costs (-40bps), targeted intervention in critical talent certifications, upskilling, creation of niche delivery pod related investments (-40bps), investments in partnership ecosystem and higher GTM activities (-50bps), and M&A integration investments (-10bps). Order book TCV stood at USD12bn in Q4. TCV for North America, BFSI, and the Consumer business was USD5.4bn, USD3.9bn, and USD2.8bn, respectively. Headcount increased 0.4% QoQ to 584,519. TCS announced a final dividend of Rs31/share. What we like: In-line revenue growth, improvement across client bucket, robust deal intake, healthy cash conversion. What we did not like: Softness in BFSI, CME, Latam, and APAC businesses.

Growth led by ER&U and Consumer across verticals, and UK, India, and North America by geography

Growth was led by ER&U (6.1% CC QoQ), Consumer Business (2.8%), Manufacturing (1.2%), Regional Markets (1.2%), Technology and Services (1%), and Life Sciences and Healthcare (0.4%). BFSI remained flat and CMI declined 0.4%. Among geographies, growth was led by the UK (2.4% CC), India (1.7%), and North America (1.4%), while Latam and APAC declined 6.9% and 0.5%, respectively.

Progress on HyperVault

TCS is progressing toward its 1GW plan for HyperVault, having secured customer interest, finalized land parcels, and moved ahead with key partnerships. The management indicated that demand discussions are centered on large anchor AI workloads of ~100–200MW per client, reflecting movement beyond exploratory stages. While HyperVault remains investment-led in the near term, the management views it as an important long-term platform to support large AI workloads and create repeat service revenues (aligned with an 'infra-to-intelligence' strategy laid out during the Investor Day in Dec-25).

Earnings call KTAs

1) BFSI spending remains cautious but continued to be outcome-focused, with emphasis on core modernization, regulatory compliance, data platforms, and AI-led productivity. 2) Healthcare and Life Sciences saw marginal growth QoQ, driven by selective modernization and cost optimization. 3) Manufacturing saw steady growth despite macro and supply-chain uncertainty. 4) Consumer Business saw good growth, supported by market-share gains, led by Retail in the UK and EMEA; North American CPG and TTH remained soft. 5) CMI saw a slight dip in Q4, though management indicated early signs of a recovery in IT spending, supported by strong momentum in securing large telecom deals. 6) Within ER&U, the E&R segment performed well, while the utilities segment continued to face some pressure. 7) In Tech and Software, customers are prioritizing cost rationalization to fund AI-led transformation via vendor consolidation and GCC expansion. 8) Order book TCV stood at USD12bn in Q4. TCV for North America, BFSI, and Consumer Business was USD5.4bn, USD3.9bn, and USD2.8bn, respectively. 9) The strong order book closure was led by vendor consolidation, AI-led modernization, scaling AI across the enterprise, digital core and digital code and data platform modernization, operating model transformation and regulatory and compliance. 10) AI revenue is expected to grow faster over time, helping offset the structural decline in traditional services. 11) TCS has created its AI acceleration playbook, executing 12–16-week programs across areas such as legacy system upgrades, data platform modernization, software engineering productivity, and business process automation via agentic AI. 12) As the integration partner across infra, engineering, and AI services, TCS is seeing strong demand that is converting into structured engagements and customer commitments, supporting its position in the HyperVault build-out. 13) The management expects AI to be net accretive over the medium term. 14) SG&A in H2 remained elevated, driven by investments in partnerships, hiring and training, and new business initiatives under the build-partner-acquire strategy, with some of this expected to carry into FY27. 15) The company has announced salary increments for eligible associates across grades, wef Apr-26.
