US Stocks Recoup Losses as Earnings and Trade News Ease Concerns

All three Major US Indices retreated from session highs but closed in positive territory. Dow Jones gained 0.31%, S&P 500 gained 0.58% and Nasdaq 100 rose 0.88%, supported by strong earnings and confirmation of the Trump-Chinese president Xi Jinping meeting, which offset concerns about weak tech results and trade tensions.

Energy stocks surged as crude oil spiked over 5% following Trump administration sanctions on Russia's largest oil producers, Rosneft and Lukoil. The move raised global supply disruption concerns, with India and China signaling reduced Russian imports.

Tesla dropped over 3% on missed profit targets before recovering as analysts highlighted Musk's AI strategy. IBM fell 6% on slowing software growth, while Intel surged 7% on stronger-than-expected sales.

Netflix plunged 10% and Texas Instruments declined 6% after both missed outlooks, weighing on tech early in the session.

Asian stock markets are trading higher, following news of a meeting between US President Donald Trump and Chinese President Xi Jinping, which eased concerns around the trade war.

Coming to Indian Markets, Nifty rose for the sixth consecutive session yesterday and ended the day with a gain of 22 points at 25891. After opening sharply higher, fueled by optimism over a potential India-US trade agreement, Nifty maintained its strength in the first half of the session. However, In the second half, Nifty reversed its trend and witnessed a sharp fall more than two hundred points to end the session near day's low.

Despite the sharp intraday fall from the day's high, Nifty is still in a positional uptrend as it is placed above all key moving averages. Support for the Nifty is seen at 25740, where 5 DEMA is placed. On the upside, 26100 will act as the immediate resistance.

Indian markets are expected to open slightly higher today, driven by positive global cues.

UK consumer sentiment rises to joint-highest since August 2024

British consumer sentiment rose in October to its joint-highest level since August 2024 as shoppers took advantage of sales promotions from Amazon and other retailers, figures from market research company GfK showed on Friday. GfK's monthly consumer sentiment gauge - the longest-running series in Britain - rose to -17 in October from -19 in September, matching levels reached in August this year and December 2024. It was last higher in August 2024.

Japan's core inflation accelerates in September, stays above BOJ target

Japan's core consumer prices rose 2.9% year-on-year in September, data showed on Friday, staying above the central bank's 2% target and keeping alive expectations of a near-term interest rate hike.

The data will be among factors the Bank of Japan (BOJ) will scrutinise at its two-day meeting next week, when the board will debate whether to keep interest rates steady at 0.5% and issue fresh quarterly growth and price forecasts.

The increase in the core consumer price index (CPI), which excludes volatile fresh food but includes fuel costs, matched a median market forecast and accelerated from a 2.7% rise in August.

Crude Oil Price Jumps Over 9% In Last Few sessions

- The recent jump in crude oil prices is mainly due to a series of U.S. sanctions on major Russian oil companies Rosneft and Lukoil, aiming to pressure Russia over its war in Ukraine. These sanctions have caused concerns about supply disruptions as these companies account for nearly half of Russia's oil exports. Additionally, reports indicate that Chinese state oil firms have stopped buying Russian oil, and Indian refiners plan significant import cuts in response to these sanctions. The European Union also imposed new sanctions targeting Russia's energy infrastructure while Ukrainian forces continue strikes on Russian refineries and pipelines, further restricting supply capacity.
- Moreover, crude prices have been supported by a possible U.S.-India trade deal that might lead India to reduce its Russian crude imports, boosting demand for oil from other sources. The U.S. administration's plans to replenish its Strategic Petroleum Reserve and a drop in crude inventories have also contributed to price support. Meanwhile, OPEC+ production increases have been less than expected, keeping prices elevated despite concerns of global oversupply. Easing tensions in the Middle East have reduced some risk premiums on supply disruptions.
- In summary, the jump in crude prices is driven by geopolitical tensions affecting Russian oil supplies, new sanctions, changes in demand from major buyers like India and China, and supply management by OPEC+ and the U.S. government.
